JURORS HEAR WARD VERSION

Statement He Made After Killing
Says He Shot Peters While Peters Had Gun Menacing Him—Exchanged Shots With Other Two.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Court House, White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Walter S. Ward's verbal admission that it was he who shot and killed Clarence M. Peters, 19 year old Haverhill, Mass., sailor, on the night of May 15, 1922, was placed before the jury trying him on charges of first degree murder today.

Sheriff George Weiner of Westchester county was the witness who gave a graphic description of the scene which occurred in the living room of the sheriff's home at Rye, N. Y., the night of May 22, 1922, when Ward surrendered and his story was told.

"Attorney Allen R. Campbell, who represented Ward, did the talking, Ward sitting beside him," Sheriff Weiner began.

"Campbell said that on the night of May 15, Ward met three fellows by appointment on the road between White Plains and Port Chester. He said they were known to Ward as Jack Rogers, Charlie and Pete. Pete was in the car with the other two, Campbell said. He said it was a big red Stutz car and that when Ward drove up in his coupe, Pete pulled a gun out of his pocket and climbed into Ward's car."

"The attorney said Ward drove along the road at Peter's direction kept the gun pressed into his side. They got out on the road where they found Peters' body the next day, the attorney said, the spot where Pete had ordered Ward to draw up to the left hand side of the road and stop."

Peters' body was found on the right hand side of the road the next morning.

"When they got there Peters went to get out of the car," Werner continued. He had some trouble opening the door and while he did the attorney said Ward got his gun out of a pocket of the car. Ward, he said, reached over and grabbed Peters' hand—grabbed him by the wrist. Peters' gun exploded, the attorney said, and he explained that the shot went out an open window of the coupe. Then Ward shot him just as he was standing there with one foot in the road and the other foot on the running board of Ward's car. He said he staggered back and that Ward kept holding his wrist until he fell," Werner stated.

"All this time the attorney told me Jack and Charlie in the big car had been up in front a little ways. Campbell said they fired at Ward and that Ward fired at them and he said he thought Ward hit one of them in the shoulder. After about nine shots were fired, he said, Charlie and Jack drove away."

"After that he said Ward drove up a little ways on the road, turned around and came back. He got out of his car, he said, and picked up Peters' gun and then drove on home."

Coroner Edward T. Fitzgerald of Westchester county, was the witness who told of an alleged conversation he had with Ward on May 22, 1922, following Peters' death. "He said he used a Colt revolver in killing Peters," the witness testified.

"I said to him that he was lucky that they," Fitzgerald referred to Peters and the mystery men of the case—Jack Rogers and Charlie Ross "didn't get you," Ward answered me like this, "Yes, I may not be so lucky the next time."

Fitzgerald's examination was brief and was preliminary to the introduction of further testimony by other witnesses who claimed to have heard Ward's verbal admission.

Frank Cody, New Rochelle police chief, who served under Ward, when the latter was police commissioner in May, 1922—the time of Peters' death—was recalled to the witness stand when court opened for cross-examination by Allen R. Campbell, attorney for the defense.

Campbell examined Cody on the direct testimony he gave yesterday regarding two revolvers which he gave to Ward in 1920 and 1921.

Yesterday Cody identified a .38 caliber Colt automatic—the one Ward says he used when he shot Peters—as the one he gave Ward in December, 1921. Cody said the other pistol—a .32 caliber Smith and Wesson regulation revolver, said by Ward to have been Peters' weapon—"looked exactly like" one he had previously given to Ward.

Cody's examination was brief. He was dismissed from the stand after fifteen minutes, the state announcing he would be recalled later on other matters.

Edward T. Fitzgerald, coroner of Westchester county, was called for the second time—the twenty-third witness.

"I was in the district attorney's office on the morning of May 22, 1922, when Ward was there," the witness said.

"I said to Ward, 'You are lucky they didn't get you,' and he said, 'Yes, I may not be so lucky the next time.'"

"Then the district attorney turned to Ward and said: 'What kind of a gun did you use?' and Ward answered, 'A Colt .38.'"

"Mr. Campbell, Ward's lawyer, came over to me and asked if we were talking to Ward, and we said no more."

Campbell took the coroner for cross-examination.

N. Y. Pressmen's Charter Suspended; Publishers Negotiating Contract With International Union

Berry Ignoring Strikers and Trying To Conclude Agreement by Which Men From Other Locals Will Man Pressrooms.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 21.—New York's newspaper publishers today resumed consideration of a proposal by Major George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union of North America, by which a new contract, ignoring 2,500 members of Local Number 25, now on strike, would be consummated. Hope that an agreement might be reached was entertained.

The proposal eliminates the striking local from further relations with the publishers. The latter now are to deal entirely with the international union. Berry has informed David Simons, president of local number 25, that the charter of the local has been suspended.

By the new contract, Berry said, the international union will guarantee arbitration of all disputed points in the future. His men will operate presses at the city's newspaper plants in place of members of local number 25, which has been outlawed because of the "illegal strike" of last Monday night. By pooling their resources, publishers today issued more than seventy per cent of their normal morning circulation—editions being of the composite, eight page type. "The situation is no longer serious," Lester L. Jones, executive representative of the Publishers Association, said.

Many pressmen from out of town have volunteered to serve at the call of the international union, it was stated.

New working cards—signed by the international instead of by the local union—are to be issued to all members of the striking union who agree to work under the new form of contract, and union men who come to New York from other cities will be transferred to the new organization, provided a suitable contract is made with the publishers, Berry stated.

"The international union thereby would accept responsibility for the conduct of press rooms hereafter," Berry said.

Newspaper trucks and wagons today were under police guard—a precautionary measure to prevent rumored attacks.

BRITAIN PAT ON REPARATIONS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Sept. 21.—The Paris conversations on reparations between Premier Stanley Baldwin and Premier Poincare have not changed Great Britain's policy, it was announced at the foreign office today.

It has been reported in Paris that Great Britain would make concessions to France.

Great Britain is standing upon the reparations policy contained in the note of August 11. This note suggested an international conference of experts to determine the amount of indemnity Germany could and must pay.

Foreign office officials claim that the British note in question has aided in clearing up the reparations situation somewhat, especially French motives.

It is probable that Great Britain will not make another decisive move until the British imperial conference opens with representatives present from all the commonwealths in the British family of nations.

Premier Baldwin will return tonight, having postponed his departure from Paris. He will consult informally with members of the cabinet Monday.

NEW PALTZ POLICE FORCE RESIGNS.

Saying Justice Barnes Is More Merciful Than Just.

"Yes, we have no police force," is the fearful remarks of some of the residents of the village of New Paltz. This serious condition of affairs is the result of bitter controversy between two of its most prominent citizens, both sworn to uphold the majesty of the law in that ordinarily peaceful community. Affairs have reached such a stage that the entire force has resigned in the person of Lansing Decker.

Last Wednesday Officer Decker apprehended a young man, Reed Parker, in the alleged act of "burning up" one of the village streets in his high powered car. Speeding through New Paltz had gone far enough in the opinion of Officer Decker, especially in view of the fact that the opening of New Paltz Normal placed so many fair young ladies under his protecting arm. So Reed Parker was taken before the village Solomon, Justice I. C. Barnes, who let him go with a suspended sentence after the subject was given much weighty consideration. Of course, this was not what the officer desired, and he told the court in angry tones just what he thought of his manner of dispensing justice and dramatically removed his glittering shield and forthwith tendered his resignation to take effect at once. "No use of trying to enforce the law if the court is going to let 'em go with a few kind words," he said.

Residents of the Normal School village are very much alarmed over the turn affairs have taken and a crime wave is expected momentarily, due to lack of police protection. The village board expects to meet at once in extraordinary session to deal with the situation.

The war office said their dismissal was not connected with their action toward foreigners and it is presumed irregularity of action toward Japanese caused the dismissal.

General Fukuda relieved General Yamanashi in charge of the martial law area today but it is said this change was not connected with the pending court-martial of the dismissed junior officers.

Ambassador Woods and Admiral Anderson called on the premier and other officials prior to the departure of Admiral Anderson from Yokohama today with the American fleet.

County To Buy Two Big Tractors And Snow Plows And Equip Busses To Fight Drifts

Supervisors Direct Purchase of a Ten-Ton Holt and a Ten-Ton Monarch, Besides Snow Plow Blades For Tractors And Busses.

The board of supervisors made a late start Thursday evening with their special session but after Clerk Henry R. De Witt got the members seated and roll called he and Chairman Fratscher kept the business moving. An important matter considered was the reading and adoption of the special committee report on snow removal. This committee reported investigating various tractors, snow plows, etc., and advertising for bids, and that the committee favored the purchase from the Universal Road Machinery Co. of a ten ton Holt tractor, of one Baker V-shaped snow plow to be attached to the tractor, and of 15 eight-foot Baker blades, also the purchase of McNamee & Case of one 10-ton Monarch tractor, and of one V-shape Baker snow plow to be attached to the tractor. Supervisor Snyder offered a resolution that the chair and clerk enter into a contract with the Universal Road Machinery Co., and McNamee & Case for the purchase of the aforesaid, the Holt tractor to cost $8,645, the Monarch tractor, $6,300, the two Baker snow plows to cost $750 each, and the 15 eight-foot Baker blades to cost $280 each. The tractors and apparatus are to be placed in the custody of the county superintendent of highways who is empowered to rent housing space, month by month, to engage men to run tractors, etc., when required, to see to necessary repairs, and to arrange with the owners of auto bus lines for the placing of the blades on their busses so they can assist in removing snow from the highways along their routes. The contractors to furnish the tractors, etc., are to render their bills at the annual session and articles sent on approval. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 26 yeas to 3 noes; Supervisors Rowe, Schoonmaker and Shaw voting in the negative.

A communication was read from Rose Hickey, secretary of the Child Welfare Board, requesting that an appropriation of $1,500 be made as that sum is necessary to carry on the work until the annual appropriation is available in January. Later a resolution offered by Supervisor Snyder that the county treasurer borrow from monies in his hands not otherwise provided for, the sum of $1,500 to be appropriated for the Child Welfare Board, as per resolution adopted in December, 1921, was adopted.

County Treasurer William H. Van Etten reported that there was a balance of $14,325.37 in his hands, being motor vehicle monies from the secretary of state, which on motion of Supervisors Brink, Sengdorf and Heaton, the county highway officials, was ordered placed to the credit of the highway fund; also that the further sum of $23,174.63 be appropriated out of monies available or by bond issue and added to the $14,325.37, and apportioned among the following towns to be used for highway purposes in accordance with the state highway law, the apportionment being as follows:

Denning ----- $ 1,000
Gardiner ----- 5,000
Hardenbergh ----- 1,000
Hurley ----- 1,000
Marbletown ----- 5,000
Olive ----- 1,000
Rochester ----- 1,500
Rosendale ----- 5,000
Saugerties ----- 6,000
Shandaken ----- 5,000
Ulster ----- 12,000

The resolution was adopted. Supervisor Dushinberr moved, and it was adopted, that the clerk of the board apportion the dog license fees collected with county treasurer and city treasurer who shall turn over the dog monies to towns and city amounts entitled to. Carried.

A petition was received from the town board of Ulster requesting the improvement of highway, a distance of one and one-half miles to be a county road beginning at the Kingston city line near Staples brickyard running north through East Kingston to a point about the entrance to Hendricks' brickyard. Received and filed.

Supervisor Fratscher of Saugerties offered resolutions rescinding resolutions adopted at previous sessions appropriating monies for improvement of highways in that town, and offered supplemental resolutions for changes in construction, the Saugerties-Palenville highway to be a trunk line of concrete instead of macadam, and that there be appropriated $51,555 by the county as its share of cost of construction instead of $40,180, with $11,300 on the town of Saugerties, being for extra work. Adopted. A former resolution as to Quarryville road to Greene county line, a distance of 3.93 miles, was changed, bringing the highway under Federal aid to be 18 feet wide, the total cost to be $197,600, of which the Federal share will be $63,862.50; state's share, $54,300; county's share, $63,805; Saugerties town, extra work, $15,300, was approved and the appropriation of $63,805, being county share was adopted.

A number of dog bills from constables and justices of the peace were read and adopted as approved as being correct by County Attorney John W. Eckert, and audited, the county treasurer to pay same out of dog monies in his hands for that purpose.

On motion of Supervisor Shuttin the board adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

ONE HARDING PLAN OVERBOARD

Coolidge Not to Press Rail Consolidation in Face of La Follette Group and Opposition of Railroads Themselves.

Copyright 1923 by International News Service.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 21.—President Coolidge has virtually decided to abandon one of the big policies of the late President Harding—that of compelling the railroads of the country to consolidate into regional systems, it was learned today from authoritative sources.

It is the first of the late president's major policies to go into the discard under the new administration.

Regional consolidation was the remedy for the railroad problem which Mr. Harding and Senator Cummins, Republican of Iowa, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, favored above all others. It furnished the keynote for all the late president's utterances on transportation matters during his fatal western trip. He dealt with it specifically and at length in Kansas City.

As a result, however, of the conferences which the new president has held since taking up his duties, it now appears extremely unlikely that congress will be asked to pass upon the plan at all, or if it is brought up will probably be shelved. In any event, it will not be the chief plank in the administration's program, as it would have been under Mr. Harding.

Various reasons are assigned for the abandonment of the proposal.

1. The strong opposition of most of the railroads themselves.

2. The even more strenuous opposition of the so-called La Follette group in the new congress, shared too, by many of the more conservative western senators.

3. The feeling on the part of President Coolidge and some of his advisers that the best thing to do with the railroads at this time is go slow in the matter of legislation.

Voluntary consolidation is now permitted under the transportation act for those roads that want it, and it is felt that to stage a fight for compulsory consolidation at this time would be fraught with more danger than the narrow administration majority in the new congress cares to invite.

For a month past, prominent railroad officials have been quietly dropping into the White House to see President Coolidge. They have not descended in a body, but in groups of two and three. These calls, in the aggregate, amount to a series of conferences which are acquainting the new president with the railroad situation.

These railroad officials have informed Mr. Coolidge they want nothing from the new congress except to be let alone. They are satisfied with the transportation act as it now stands and they have told him that if the congress will only stop "tinkering" with the roads for a while they can "come back" of their own accord.

It is recognized, however, that the transportation act is to be subjected to a grand assault in the new congress by the so-called "radicals," led by La Follette, Brookhart, et al. In view of this situation, it is felt by administration leaders that to complicate matters by injecting compulsory arbitration into it would only result in more confusion and in the end might result in infinitely worse conditions than now prevail.

There will be fighting enough in congress anyway, in view of the widespread demand for a general revision of freight rates.

SENATORS TELL
FARMERS' PLIGHT

Frazier, Norbeck and Harrison Tell
Coolidge Situation in West Is Desperate—May Be Special Session.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 21.—While President Coolidge considered the summoning of congress in special session to deal with farm problems, new reports of agriculture distress were brought to the capitol today by senators returning from trips through the west.

Appeals for administration action to lift the farmers' burdens were made by Senator Lynn J. Frazier, Republican of North Dakota, and Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi. They were joined by Senator Norbeck, Republican of South Dakota, in describing the agricultural situation as desperate. All three senators reached the capitol after having spent several months in the agricultural sections of the west.

President Coolidge meanwhile, continued his conferences with cabinet members, legislators, and experts from the department of commerce and agriculture. The plight of the farmers and the possible calling of an extra session of congress, were discussed at today's cabinet meeting.

Senator Frazier, former non-partisan governor of North Dakota, endorsed the recent statements of Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, who termed the agricultural situation "one of the worst in history."

The situation among farmers in the west is one of the worst in history, said Frazier. "I agree with Senator Borah in his economic description of the west. The farmers really need government action to relieve the present situation."

Frazier said he would call upon President Coolidge to "lay before the executive the needs of the farmers." Senator Borah paid a similar visit to the president earlier in the week.

The farmers need legislative relief," Frazier added. "I personally believe that prices of farm products must be stabilized before he can obtain permanent relief. I favor a bill on the order of the Norris-Sinclair measure, introduced at the last session, which guaranteed a fair return on farm products. The most return price guarantee on wheat. Other crops will then respond. It is only by such a desperate remedy that this situation can be met."

"Railroad rates are largely to blame. The present cost of transportation must be reduced and congress should provide the way. The cost of freight is so high farmers cannot transport their products to market except at a loss."

"The situation is desperate and there is no question about the emergency. Thousands of farmers are going broke and forced to lose their homes and farms in the existing depression. They are losing money by even planting crops."

Senator Harrison, a Democratic leader in the senate, favors the calling of a special session but urged the president to "let Congress select its own program of relief." He declared freight rates would have to be reduced to provide "real relief" west.

Overcome By Gas.

This morning one of the workmen employed by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, while at work on the new gas governor being installed at the intersection of Prince street and Hasbrouck avenue, was overcome by the gas fumes. Fortunately fellow workmen discovered his plight and pulled him out of the excavation, and after walking him about for a few minutes he had revived sufficiently to resume work.

for the farmers, but opposed government stabilization of prices.

Senator Norbeck, a leader of the Senate "farm bloc" also blamed transportation costs for the present farm conditions.

"The farmer is getting the worst of it from everybody," said Norbeck. "He not only loses money because of the low prices paid for his products but he must pay high prices for the products he buys. The present economic situation—one of the worst in history—is due to high prices paid by the farmer for things he must buy, high transportation costs, and high labor charges."

"The wheat farmer has suffered more than the rest," Norbeck also will call upon the President to tell him of the situation in the middle west.

JUDGE CLEARWATER IS TO SPEAK

To Teachers and Kiwanis Club at Constitution Week Celebration and Ladies' Night.

The program at the weekly luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday was what might be termed a flexible one. It led anywhere any member wanted to, in the absence of any particular speaker, and resolved itself into a series of songs, old and new and sung with great gusto to the accompaniment of the same able young woman pianist who appeared for the first time at last week's meeting.

Clearwater will deliver an address on the United States Constitution. Judge Clearwater is nationally known as an authority on constitutional law and was a leading figure in the convention some years ago to revise the constitution of this state. The teachers of the high school have been invited.

The purpose of the Kiwanis "Constitution Week" is to teach reverence for and a wider and better knowledge of the basic law of the nation.

THE PRESCRIPTION

Under the Volstead Law the only lawful way anyone can become possessed of "Intoxicating Liquor" is by obtaining a prescription from a physician. To qualify for this, one must be ill and the physician must believe that liquor is needed as a medicine. Then he may lawfully prescribe not more than one pint of distilled liquor or not more than one quart of wine. This must last the sick person ten days, regardless of his needs or what the physician thinks or knows about his needs.

With this prescription one may, theoretically and according to the law, purchase at an extortionate price from a druggist one pint of liquor or one quart of wine, as the prescription specifies. That is the theory, but not fact, as many who have tried it out have found to their cost. First, you must search for a druggist who sells liquor, and you will find them surprisingly few, many reputable druggists having refused to take out the necessary license because of the annoying formalities involved and for the further reason that they believe it to be difficult to obtain liquor of a quality that they care to handle.

Somewhere along the line between the distiller and the consumer the liquor sold in many drug stores has been "doctored" by taking out half or more of it and substituting water, raw alcohol or new moonshine whiskey, so that after you have gone through all the formalities and paid $6 for a pint of theoretically pure liquor the compound you get is about as valuable and far less safe to use than would be a bottle of slightly flavored dishwater. The good liquor that was withdrawn somewhere along the line goes to favored bootleggers who sell it at fancy prices to their most favored customers. The liquor sold to the sick is what is left, weak at best, poisonous at worst.

It is not remarkable that many physicians after giving a prescription advise the patient to try to get some real liquor from a "friend" rather than undergo the risk of buying from a drug store. The "friend," if he is a friend of a bootlegger, may be able to get really pure liquor.

WHEAT FREE OF CHAFF.

An American business man who has just returned from Europe tells us that "France has raised enough wheat this year to supply her needs without importations. Italy has raised a bumper crop and will import 25 per cent less than last year. Russia is exporting wheat. . . . European countries can produce food cheaper than the American farmer can lay it down in Europe."

There we have the true explanation of the present depression in the price of wheat in America. Europe is not buying so much American wheat because she does not need it. All the "participation in European affairs" that the internationalists ask, would not increase the consumption of American wheat in Europe to the extent of a fraction of one per cent. Europe will buy only as much American wheat as necessity compels, and she will buy that much regardless of our much agitated "participation."

"America should invest in Europe," says a prominent financier. Unless newspaper reports are in error, we have been doing that for some time. For instance, Americans are supposed to have put a billion or more into German marks. Thus far that was nearly all profit for Germany. Daily reports of bond transactions on the New York Stock Exchange show that large amounts of French, Belgian and British bonds are bought in America. These are manifestly bought by Americans, for if bought by people of Europe they would be bought in the London market. The people of the United States, through their government, invested $11,000,000,000 in Europe through the war loans. They have added enormously to that investment through private channels since.

Fall is thought by some to be the nicest time of the year. There is no doubt that many of the poets think so because there is never a dearth of poetry on autumn and the beauty it provides. The novelists, too, are frequent with their use of the crisp autumnal days and the bleak November morn'g or afternoons. The practical man, however, sees beauty in every day in the year if he is out of debt and has a dollar in his jeans. He may not be a poet, but then he can buy a good book of poems to keep the poets alive.

An English sea captain, who admits twelve successful run-running trips from Nassau during the past year, asserts that he never came nearer the American coast than 18 miles. If run runners can operate successfully 18 miles out from our coast, what could be gained by extending the old three-mile limit to twelve miles even if international agreement to the change could be secured?

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. If there are lizards that are same shape as snakes, how can you tell which is which?

2. Why do crows and such creatures live in shallow water?

3. Do woodpeckers dig into live wood? I hear arguments both ways. Why don't you find more trace of their holes in live trees?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Can you tell me why a horse turns his tail to the rain, while a cow turns her head?

We can only give you the theory, that this habit is only part of one whereby cattle face an enemy with the weapon-end of the body, or horns, forward, while horses present the heels as a weapon-end. If cattle when attacked by other beasts form a circle with their heads out, ready to gore, horses form a circle with tails out, ready to kick.

2. Can any plant move its leaves by itself?

There is a tropical Asiatic plant, Desmodium, sometimes grown as a curiosity in greenhouses, under name of Telegraph plant, which seems to move little leaflets growing from the stem below its long terminal leaves. These jerk up and down like keys to an old-style telegraph board.

3. How do baby hummingbirds learn to fly?

A fine account of this is in Finley's American Birds, the only published description of the point we know. In his observation, young hummers practice by climbing to the edge of the nest, and while clutching it with their feet, lift the wings and make them vibrate. The rapidity of the vibration improves with practice. When the characteristic whirring motion has been acquired, the young bird can safely dart free from the nest.

OCEAN MAIL WELL WATCHED

Officers of Experience Keep a Constant Check of the Pouches on Vessels at Sea.

The disappearance of several mail bags from the Atlantic Transportation company's mail steamer, the Minnehaha, is a strange occurrence.

That it is due to an error in checking can almost be considered as impossible, for so often and accurately are the mails counted by postal experts that so large an error could never have occurred, observes London Mail-Bits.

When mails arrive on the quay side for transshipment to the waiting mail boat they are taken out of the closely guarded van and transferred to the floor of the shed alongside which the ship is berthed.

Then comes the work of loading and checking the mails. The task is performed by two independent checkers, one representing the postal authorities, who are responsible for the safety of the mails till they are finally on board the mail boat, the other being the mail officer of the ship, usually the second officer, a man of many years' experience and service in the company.

Each bag is counted as it is carried up the gangway and placed in the mail-room—a specially constructed and burglar-proof compartment—where yet another officer is superintending the stowing and guarding against any possible pilfering.

When the last bag is safely aboard, usually about an hour before sailing time, the tally is reckoned up, and the second officer signs a receipt for the number of bags aboard his ship.

Now the responsibility of the postal authorities is ended. The keys are handed over to the commander, who only parts with them for a few minutes each day, when they are handed to the mail officer, whose duty it is to visit the mail-room and see that everything is secure.

Each day of the voyage across the Atlantic he carries out this duty, and a daily entry is made in the official log-book: "Mail-room visited at noon; everything correct."

When port is reached the same scrupulous care is taken in unloading the mails. The mail train draws up alongside the ship. Each bag is again checked as it is placed in the van, and the second officer breathes a sigh of relief as the postal official signs the receipt that testifies that "the mail of the R. M. S. . . has been received intact and in good condition."

Fight Intruders.

Wild creatures often have well-defined ideas as to where they belong and, as if certain places belonged to them, will fight off rivals. A male hummingbird will take possession of a California garden and be ready all day to cross swords with any other of his kind that comes that way. "Cross swords" is a good expression for one can hear the clashing of the long bills as the birds soar high into the air. In the end the intruder is driven off. The male ostrich on a South African farm draws imaginary boundaries to his "land," and will attack even a human being who crosses them during the breeding season. These birds are dangerous customers, but the farmer, in making his rounds, is never attacked by more than one at a time.—Sportsman's Digest.

The Cent That Went to Church.

A silver dollar and a 1-cent piece once started an argument which deteriorated, as so many disputes do, into the purely personal. At this stage, the big coin thought it would squelch its opponent beyond resuscitation by declaring:

"I am one hundred times as good as you are—one hundred times as good as you are."

But the insignificant cent came back at him with:

"Like fun you are! I go to church every Sunday."—Everybody's Magazine.

Not What She Expected.

Woman candidate (to heckler who had been pestering her for a plain yes or no to his various questions)—If I ask you a question will you answer "Yes" or "No"?

Heckler—With pleasure.

Candidate (employing well-known device)—Have you stopped beating your wife?

Heckler—No; I beat her this morning.

Candidate—What?

Heckler—Yes—three up and two to play.—Punch, London.

Joyful Surprise.

After arranging with the undertaker and the sexton, Abraham Yake of Stouffville went to Toronto to bring home his wife's body, and found that she was still alive. Mrs. Yake had been visiting and a telephone message that she was "sick in bed" was misconstructed to "ill and dead." The grave had been already prepared.

Abe's Best Joke.

Abe requests us to reprint his best joke, about the monkey in the restaurant that grabbed his half-dollar and swallowed it.

"It made me so turned mad," said Abe, "that I picked the monkey up by the hind legs and shook him good, and before I got through I shook $2.95 change out of him."

Curiosity.

"Daddy, can you still do tricks?" "What do you mean, my son, 'do tricks'?"

"Well, I heard mamma say that when you were young you used to drink like a fish."

Genius Explained.

Genius is nothing more than our common faculties refined to a greater intensity. There are no astonishing ways of doing astonishing things. All astonishing things are done by ordinary materials.—B. R. Hayden.

"Spring Cleaning" Old Custom. What we call "spring cleaning" is said to go back to the Passover. From that time there has been a custom whereby everything in a house should be cleaned in the early part of the year. The custom was common among the Jews, especially those who settled in Holland, and gradually the whole of the Dutch nation became impregnated with this idea. From the Netherlands the custom spread to England.

Highly Prized Decoration. The British Victoria cross, given for conspicuous bravery, was instituted in 1856 on the close of the Crimean war, and was given to citizens who had borne arms against the Indian mutineers. In 1911 the decoration was extended to the Indian army. A bar may be awarded for an additional act of bravery. With the decoration is a pension for noncommissioned officers and men of £10 ($50) a year; with an addition of £5 ($25) for each bar.

Tame in Captivity. Two bugs that will try the patience of the photographer are the dragon fly and rove beetle, says Nature Magazine. Both are ferocious, preying creatures, but, like most wild things, if treated properly, will submit to captivity without fatal results. By placing a large dragon fly in the large glass box and supplying plenty of house flies, splendid pictures are obtained of this insect hawk feeding upon its victims.

STARS ONLY LEFT IN GOLF TITLE PLAY

By Telegram to The Freeman. Flossmoor Country Club, Chicago, Sept. 21.—Jesse Sweetser, present champion was full of confidence when he stepped out this morning to meet Bob Gardner of Chicago. In the semi-finals for the amateur golf championship at the Flossmoor Country Club.

Francis Outmet, Boston, met Maxwell Marston, of Philadelphia, in the other semi-final match. This lineup shows that three of the semi-finalists have held the amateur championship title. Marston is the only one of the four who has never known how it feels to be the champion.

Sweetser and Outmet were the favorites to reach the final round. Sweetser has been playing the same sort of golf which won for him at Brookline last year.

Outmet has the edge in the Marston-Outmet match but Marston showed when he knocked out Jones that he does not respect great reputations. He probably will keep Outmet very busy.

Cuneo's Clambake. John J. Cuneo will hold his fifteenth annual clambake at Lake Katrine Inn, Saturday, September 29, the service to be continuous from the time of opening the first bake at 2 p. m. until 12 o'clock midnight. Besides plenty of clams, chicken, lobster, bluefish, sweet corn, sweet and Irish potatoes and watermelon, there will be music. Extra waiters will be in attendance.

JEWISH FEAST OF INGATHERING

The Jewish Feast of Ingathering, known also as the Feast of Tabernacles or Sukoth, will be observed at the synagogue beginning Monday evening, September 24, the concluding day being Tuesday, October 2.

Its Biblical basis is Deuteronomy 16:13-15 where it is said: "Thou shalt keep the Feast of Tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in from thy threshing floor and from thy winepress. And thou shalt rejoice in the feast, thou, thy son and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow that are within thy gates." Reference to the Feast of Tabernacles is also made in Leviticus 23:34-35, and in other parts of the Pentateuch.

That our national Thanksgiving is directly patterned on this ancient harvest festival of Israel, despite of little dispute or doubt. The Pilgrim Fathers being earnest and devout Scripture readers transferred the harvest festival of Israel to American environment.

Both in the synagogue and the home the festival bears a joyous aspect. It is indeed a season of gladness. The worshipper is reminded of and impressed with God's goodness and mercies which endure forever. The bounties of the earth are intended for all mankind. This confidence is voiced with great conviction so that no one may fancy the earth is a vale of tears or the abode of gloom.

According to the preachment of the synagogue the feast of Succoth is the message of Israel to humanity of the dignity of labor and the value of the toil by which human beings obtain their daily bread. Whatever value mankind is precious and dignified in proportion to the amount of toil expended on it. Particularly stressed on this feast is the notion of God's protection over Israel throughout the centuries.

Pretty Summer Hats for Kiddies to Wear

Kiddies' hats in the inexpensive types, made up in quaint little effects for the summer time, are being shown, notes a fashion writer in the Boston Herald. There are many little garden types of imported cretonnes and Swiss organdies, the cretonnes, in many cases, having black grounds with patterns of color in flower baskets, birds and other animals, all sorts of designs that would interest children.

Cotton crepe is used to face these little shapes, which are usually of the softest type, without frame, and made in the form of sunbonnets—roll brims that turn back from the face, and have little streamers under the chin, and pokes that are very deep in the brim and have crowns that are square across the top, with four section sides. This is very novel and one which is especially good for the kiddie hat.

Pipings of narrow grosgrain ribbon and box-plaited effects are all used to outline these little organdie and cretonne crowns and brims, and a great deal of the old blue ribbon is employed in this way. A new ribbon about an inch and a half wide is being used for entire hats; this is an imported white grosgrain, with a pattern of Egyptian lotus and chariots through it in color—just such a design as a child would like. The ribbon is made up into large cloche shapes and faced in white hemp.

Panel Fringes Made in Paisley Designs

Perhaps the only field not invaded by the vogue for paisley is at last to succumb and the result is one of the most effective trimming ideas introduced for years. Deniers in heads and head ornaments, are showing long panel fringes worked in a variety of paisley designs. This design idea in fringes is new with the season and invites many possibilities.

The paisley idea is also to be introduced in flat ornaments worked on net. In this connection one dealer is using an odd oblong hagle head designed and made by himself, to interpret these motifs. Imported numbers of this kind combine a queer straw head and extensive silk embroidery to achieve the desired effect.

For midseason use medium shaped rhinestone buckles are enjoying an extensive vogue and are to be remarked as unusually simple in design and finish.

KILLS MAN AFTER ATTACK ON WIFE

Canadian Mill Manager in Hand-to-Hand Death Struggle With Crazy Chinaman.

MADE MAD BY THUNDER

Aldergrove, B. C.—Full details of the struggle between Anthony Rerrie, mill manager, and Yung Sing, an insane Chinese mill hand, which resulted in the death of the oriental, were brought to light at the inquest. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that Mr. Rerrie had fired in self-defense.

Wakened about 4 o'clock one morning by hearing some one prowling about the house, knocking at the doors and windows, Mr. Rerrie got out of bed and went to investigate. While walking from the rear of the house toward the front he heard Mrs. Rerrie scream. Rushing into the house, he was horrified to see a Chinaman attacking her. He had already torn a part of the clothing from the bed, and Mrs. Rerrie was struggling with him.

Husband Attacks Chinaman. Mr. Rerrie jumped on the Chinaman, who, it transpired later, had been driven insane by the thunderstorm the previous evening and who was possessed of the terrific strength of a lunatic. The oriental turned and clutched with the white man, and together they struggled and fought about the bedroom.

Mrs. Rerrie was only recently operated upon and has been in a very nervous condition since her illness. Their small daughter, nine years old, hearing the struggle, came to the aid of her father, using her ineffective efforts to assist him by pounding the Chinaman's back.

"Get your revolver!" screamed Mrs. Rerrie, and, throwing the Chinaman from him, the lumberman sprang to the bureau, where he kept his gun. As soon as he loosened his hold the maniac again attacked Mrs. Rerrie.

Fire Several Shots. The husband jumped at him again, and struck him. The lunatic was driven toward the door. Rushing him, Rerrie forced the Chinaman outside, and followed to drive him off the premises. The Chinaman turned and ran, and Rerrie fired several shots into the ground to awaken the mill workers and effect the capture of the lunatic.

After running a short distance, Yung Sing wheeled about and, picking up a piece of 2 by 4 timber, rushed at the white man, with the heavy stick uplifted. Rerrie fired low. The bullet struck the Chinaman in the abdomen and severed an artery.

Yung Sing stumbled and fell when struck. It was evident at once that his life was in danger.

In the meantime Mrs. Rerrie had staggered from her bed to the telephone and was frantically endeavoring to rouse the police. This was accomplished, as her husband came back and sent a message for a doctor.

Sleeping Man Falls Forty Feet, but Only Gets Bump

While sitting on the stone rail of a bridge at Excelsior Springs, Mo., Ernest Boyer fell asleep and fell 40 feet on the soft ground, his head just missing a projecting iron pipe.

A patrolman, thinking Boyer was dead, notified an undertaker and descended with him to the place where Boyer lay. On their arrival Boyer jumped to his feet, having suffered only a bump on the head.

Baby Wrapped in Gum Tape

Gallery Might Do

A youngster with plenty of sang-froid, but little money, was inviting his best girl to go to see the stock company at a local theater. "Well, I'll get the tickets this afternoon," he said. "How's your hearing and eyesight?"

YOUTH NEARLY STRANDED IN COIN SLOT TURNSTILE

Through Sheer Strength Men, Force Bar and Release Lad After Fifty Minutes.

New York.—Boyhood's call, for experiment almost caused the strangulation of Harry Magit, five years old, when the youngster's head became wedged in the turnstile at the Brighton Beach station of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company, West Fifth street and Sea Breeze avenue, Coney Island. With Lillian Agen, the lad sought to go through the exit side of the coin slot turnstile. He was unable to release himself after his head became fastened between two bars.

Passengers from the trains strove vainly to force the bars sufficiently to free him. A plumber with a hacksaw offered to cut the bar off the turnstile, but was prevented from doing so. The Agen child, with whom the boy had been romping, ran and notified her mother of the mishap. Isidore and Harry Agen, father and uncle, respectively of the girl, hurried to the turnstile, surrounded by scores of spectators, while Mrs. Agen telephoned the police and the Coney Island hospital.

Through sheer strength two men forced the bar back sufficiently to release the lad after his head had been wedged in for fifty minutes. Police reserves and Hook and Ladder Company 244 arrived after Doctor Berger, an ambulance surgeon from Coney Island hospital, had treated the child and said no bones were broken. Harry was carried to his home with a sore neck, after a thrill that comes but once in a lifetime.

In Tragedy of Little Italy Only Juliet Dies

New York.—Mike Russo is a Roman, but only a barber in a little shop down around Thompson street in New York's East side Italian center. He thinks Romeo and Juliet is just a cigar. Being a Roman, he had his opinion of Sicilians, and, therefore, little Italy mourns his daughter Madeline, age fourteen.

Madeline and her romance must have twanged the imagination of the whole settlement. She was so young and so pretty. She went to her father some months ago, told him she loved Steve Ramelli.

There was quite a storm. Madeline was only fourteen and too young. Well, anyway, this Steve was a Sicilian and therefore no good. No, she couldn't marry Steve.

Madeline disappeared. She and Steve were found living together.

Mike sent word that it would be all right. They were to meet him at the license bureau. They walked into a trap. Steve was arrested for abduction. Madeline was taken into custody as a witness against him and sent to the Children's Society home.

At night, with a key obtained, no matter how, Madeline opened the grating on the window of her room in the home, tossed out a rope of knotted sheets, took a hitch around a bedpost, and began to lower herself to the street, where Steve waited in an auto. She fell to her death.

Man Blown to Death by Bomb Tied to Battery

Long Beach, Cal.—A bomb, believed to have been attached to the battery of his automobile, exploded and killed G. Ferris Van Tassel, twenty-seven, an oil worker, as he started to drive out of the back yard of his home here.

His bride of one month heard the terrific detonation and saw Van Tassel stagger toward her, both hands blown off, his face disfigured and his chest riddled with flying pieces of metal; he fell dead before her.

Police are searching for Ed Engman of Fullerton, a former husband of Mrs. Van Tassel. Mrs. Van Tassel told the police that Engman had often said to her before their divorce, fifteen months ago, "there will never be any step-father to my child."

Find Seven Frogs in Snake After Rescuing the Eighth

Culpeper, Va.—While W. V. Carpenter, a young farmer of this county, was passing from one hay field to another, his attention was attracted by the peculiar actions of a frog leaping about in a gully. He found it was endeavoring to escape from one of its hereditary enemies, a moccasin snake. With his hay fork he dispatched the snake. The rural mail carrier, arriving on the scene at that moment, remarked upon the peculiar appearance of the reptile, saying he had never seen one with large knots or lumps all over it. An autopsy was held and seven frogs found within, some of them alive. The snake measured nearly six feet in length.

Kidnap Girl for Wedding Banquet. Chicago.—Just to put some pep into their wedding, Russo Nicola and Philomena Costello conspired to stage a kidnaping scene. Russo grabbed his sweetheart on a crowded street and took her away in an automobile. Police gave up the search when the couple turned up happily married.

Praised for Killing Mate. Cincinnati.—Accused of killing her husband when he threatened to kill her and their child, Mrs. Beatie Bush was arraigned in court and freed. Judge Yeatsman praised Mrs. Bush for her act.

Uncomfortable Shaving Process. Razors are not allowed in the Wilshire county asylum at Devizes, England, and those who desire to be shaved have to use pumice stone, according to report of the commissioner under the board of control. Safety razors have been recommended.

WILD PIGEON FEUD

California Hog Farmers Act to Save Acorns.

Ranchers Demand Open Season So Thousands of Birds Can Be Slaughtered.

The wild brother of the pigeon who struts and coos in front of Madison Square Garden and shares the lunch-rooms of his admirers, is a source of disension in California, and around him is raging a controversy in which charges and countercharges of greed and political activity are bandied back and forth. Even the federal government has been forced to take cognizance of the feud between friends and foes of the wild or band-tailed pigeon of northern Santa Barbara county.

The housewife who does her own marketing would not be likely to connect wild pigeons with the price of bacon, but according to the hog raisers of Santa Barbara the bird is a destroyer of the acorn crops on which the hog ranchers chiefly depend for feed, and hence a factor in the crop of porkers and their attendant selling price.

Last November and December, according to some hog ranchers and farmers, the wild pigeons were so numerous and hungry that they proved disastrous to the acorn crops and the early plantings of farmers. In fear that the flight of countless thousands of wild pigeons would continue daily for three months, 16 farmers, according to the California fish and game commission, wrote to Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture in Washington and requested that an open season be declared on the pigeons.

Farmers, they averred, were unable to plant grain because the thousands of pigeons devoured the seed as soon as it was sown. They urged that January, February and March be declared open months for the killing of the birds, with a limit of 50 birds per hunter, and with no limit on farming land when permission to shoot was obtained from the farmer.

An investigation was made by Dr. W. P. Taylor, assistant biologist of the United States biological survey, and he agreed with the deputy fish and game commissioner of the Santa Barbara district that sportsmen were trying to hide behind the farmer and endeavoring through him to get acorns instead of chestnuts out of the fire. Doctor Taylor, stating the petition to be based on a misconception "not to say willful perversion of the facts," asserted no damage to grain was reported or could be found in the pigeon country.

"Many acorns were left behind by the pigeons in the Santa Maria section," he continued. "There is abundant green feed this year aside from the acorns, and the value of acorns as food for stock is questionable at best, for it is reported on good authority that hogs fed on acorns put on soft fat and lose their marketability."

"The granting of this petition would pave the way for a duplication of the disgraceful slaughter of 1911-12, which is still a stench in the nostrils of conservationists as well as in those of the better balanced residents in the pigeon sections themselves. I talked with numerous petitioners, but not one on conversation argued for the large limit here proposed or for unlimited killing on farm lands."

"There is no question in my mind," reported the deputy fish and game commissioner, "but what the pigeons have in the past done harm to the farmers in the Zaca, Los Olivos and Santa Ynez Valley sections, but not nearly so bad as reported. As to the acorns I have talked to cattlemen and they do not think much of the acorn as a food for cattle and hogs."

The attitude of the California fish and game commission on the question is thus expressed: "If it is time to open the season on wild pigeons let the sportsmen so state, proving their contention by a show of statistics as to augmented numbers of birds and reasonableness of a toll being taken. But why hide behind the farmer?"

Simplified Art.

A certain painter is confined in an asylum. To persons who visit him he says:

"Look at this; it is my latest masterpiece."

They look, and see nothing but an expanse of bare canvas. They ask:

"What does that represent?"

"That? Why, that represents the passage of the Israelites through the Red sea."

"Beg pardon but where is the sea?"

"It has been driven back."

"And where are the Israelites?"

"They have crossed over."

"And the Egyptians?"

"Will be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple and unpretentious."—Art Record

"Excuse me, sir," said the unemployed in a trembling voice.

"So you are out of work again," said the minister severely. "It seems to me you get tired of a new employer very quickly."

"Don't misrepresent me, sir," pleaded the man. "It can never be truthfully said that I get tired fast."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Over 17 Million Jars Used Yearly

TEN BILLION NEEDED BY FARMS IN NEXT TEN YEARS

Repairs, New Buildings, Machinery, Fertilizers, Replacements to Cost Huge Sum.

American agriculture, which has been turning out a capacity product with its physical equipment in a run-down condition, must within the next ten years save up and reinvest in the farm plant from $8,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 of new capital, according to economists of the Department of Agriculture, who say this is a conservative estimate.

"For three years farmers have patiently patched, mended, repaired and used makeshifts," an official report says. "Some time in the coming decade the farm must have about the same replenishment and renewal of productive plant that the railroads are now going through. Before 1933, three-fourths of the farm buildings will require new roofs and new paint."

"Probably a half-million new houses, barns and auxiliary buildings will have to be replaced and much new fence put up. Millions of new tile must be laid."

"The buying and harvest machinery will have to be replaced almost entirely; tillage machinery in large part; wagons, harnesses, etc., in part. Millions of new automobiles, tractors and trucks must be bought. Millions of tons of new piping wiring, barn equipment and small tools; millions of new gas engines and stationary power appliances, millions of feet of lumber and tons of cement must be bought."

"Millions of tons of fertilizer and lime must be poured into the soil of the East and South to restore pre-war fertility. The country's work horses are old and before 1933 almost a new crop must be raised."

"The men who control great capital resources must realize agriculture's real and unusual need for new capital, and they must realize that farming in this country is still a basic industry—an industry with a future that will pay ample returns on every dollar wisely invested."

"One of the rural community's very serious problems during the next five or ten years will be debt."

SNAKE PEERS IN WINDOW

Ohio Minister's Wife Finds It on Ledge of Second Story of Home. Getting up from a chair in a second-story bedroom, to call her husband through an adjoining window, Mrs. J. L. Peck, minister's wife of Thornville, O. saw a blacksnake peering in through the window, near the lock.

She punched herself to see if she was dreaming and looked again.

Hanging on the window ledge was the snake. Going to another window she called loudly for help and in a few minutes, citizens of the east part of town had gathered with instruments of warfare of all kinds.

One neighbor knocked the intruder from the window with a fish net pole, while another decapitated the offender with a hoe. The unwelcome visitor measured five feet.

TURKISH CAMPAIGN COSTLY

England Has Spent More Than 29 Million Pounds in Near East.

It has cost England £29,115,000 sterling for the occupation of Constantinople and the adjacent area since the armistice in 1918. Premier Baldwin told the house of commons recently. These figures, he added, did not represent the extra cost to the taxpayer of the occupation, since the greater part of the occupying forces would otherwise have been employed elsewhere. The extra cost was estimated at £16,000,000 sterling. The premier further stated that the allied governments had decided to forego any claim against Turkey for the cost of occupation of Turkish territory.

LITERACY TEST FOR NEW VOTERS

All Must Take It—School Superintendent to Designate Dates and Places.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 21.—Rules and regulations for carrying out the new literacy requirements for voters were adopted by the Board of Regents at the regular meeting here yesterday.

The Election Law of 1923 places sole authority upon the Board of Regents for the issuance of certificates of literacy to new voters. A certificate of literacy showing that a new voter is able to read and write English will be issued in schools throughout the state to those who successfully pass an examination in reading and writing. This examination known as the New York State Regents Literacy Test examines the applicant in both reading and writing. There is a selection of about 100 words in simple English, followed by a series of eight to ten questions which must be answered by the candidate in his own handwriting.

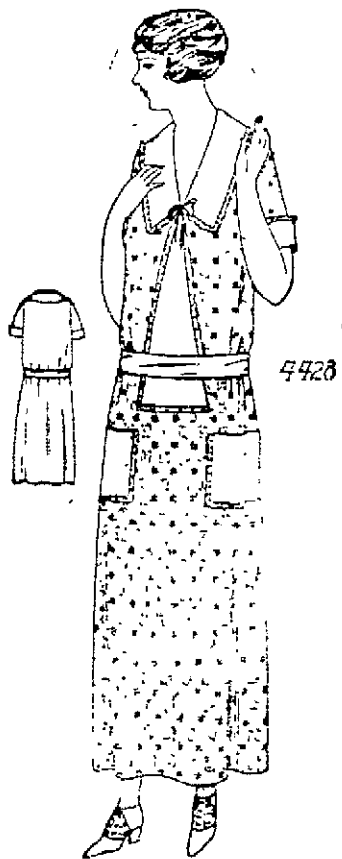

The Regents have ruled that in communities of the state where personal registration is required, examinations shall be held during the two weeks preceding the last day of registration. But in communities where personal registration is not required, examinations for the issuance of certificates of literacy will be held during the two weeks before Election Day.

According to the law, all new voters must present evidence of literacy in order to vote. This evidence of literacy consists either of a diploma or certificate of graduation from an eighth grade elementary school or of a higher school in which English is the language of instruction, or a certificate of literacy granted by the school officials. Such evidence of literacy must be presented on registration day in places where personal registration is required, and on Election Day in places where personal registration is not required.

A new voter as defined by the law is a person, whether native or foreign born, who became qualified to vote since January 1, 1922, and has not already voted at a general election in New York state. It is estimated that there are annually about 120,000 new voters in this state. The New York state literacy law is a result of an amendment to the State Constitution in 1921 passed by a majority of approximately 265,000 voters.

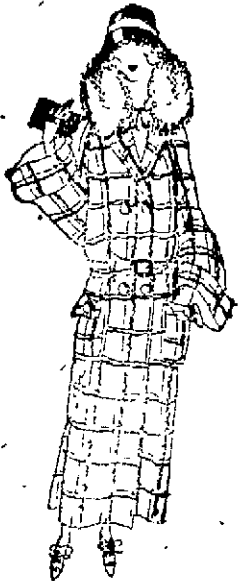

New voters are urged to confer with the local superintendent of schools where they reside for the exact day for the conduct of the literacy examinations.

BASEBALL PLAYED IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD

Chinese Have Developed Remarkable Proficiency.

Baseball is fast spreading to all four corners of the earth. France, Germany, Italy, Japan, China, Mexico, Cuba, Canada, several South American countries, Australia—these are only a few of the places which have taken up the great national pastime of the United States.

Strange as it may appear, the Chinese have developed remarkable proficiency in baseball, ranking even better than the Japanese.

During the tour of the big leaguers in the East last winter some stiff opposition was encountered in China.

A team of all-Chinese players has been coming to this country for the last five years. Their record against the best college teams is 80 per cent on the credit side. The first year only one college nine was able to beat the Chinese, who won 27 games out of 28, and that was the crack Notre Dame aggregation.

"Buck" Lai, a Chinese living near Philadelphia, was a member of the first team to come over. He was offered a berth with the Philadelphia Nationals but was unable to stick. He played for two years in the Eastern league, however.

Cubans have also shown great aptitude for baseball, and there are several Cuban teams that are almost a match for any big league team in this country. Louie, the best major league pitcher of the year, is a Cuban.

Mexico is becoming quite enthusiastic about baseball. In the majority of the other countries mentioned, the pastime is still in the experimental stage, though slowly winning popularity.

It is not at all beyond the range of possibility that within five or ten years a world series may mean an ocean trip for one of the two contending teams.

YANKS CLINCH FLAG; GIANTS FOUR AHEAD.

With the Yankees having the bunting safely tucked away for 1923, interest in the pennant fight centers on whether the Giants can maintain their present advantage and come through.

With only ten more games to play the Giants lead the Reds by four games and the Pirates by six games.

New York Newspapers during Strike.

When the web pressmen of New York declared what their own international President, George L. Berry, alleged was an "illegal strike" they effectually closed down the regular publication of New York newspapers. With what few pressmen they could obtain the New York newspapers combined and issued one eight-page paper, with the vignettes of all in the corner of the issue.

Why not settle, once and for all, this question of Correct Lubrication for your Ford?

Your Ford instruction book (Answer No. 100) says:—

"We recommend only light high-grade gas engine oil. . . Heavy and inferior oils have a tendency to carbonize quickly; also 'gum up' the piston rings, valve stems and bearings."

LET us show you exactly why your Ford engine operates best on a clean-burning oil, such as Gargoyle Mobiloil "E." First, you pour in the oil. Your Ford manual tells you to open the top pet-cock on the oil reservoir, and to pour oil into the filler until it runs from this top pet-cock.

Suppose you pour in an oil heavier than "E." It is easy to supply too much, unless the oil flows out freely when the upper pet-cock level is reached. Heavier-bodied oils flow sluggishly. Consequently there is a danger of over-supply.

(POINT 1) When you pour in Gargoyle Mobiloil "E," it runs out at once when the oil is up to the pet-cock level. The correct oil level is obtained with CERTAINTY.

But possibly you do not think that this over-supply of oil makes any difference. Well, let us see what happens.

You notice that there is no splash trough for the rear cylinder. It is lubricated by the fly-wheel splash. (The third cylinder also receives some of this splash.)

If there is too much oil in the reservoir there will be too much oil splashed to the third and fourth cylinders. From the cylinders der walls this excessive amount of oil reaches the combustion chambers where it is burned up. With an over-supply of oil heavier than "E," don't be surprised if you find extra heavy carbon deposits in these rear cylinders.

(POINT 2) The exceptionally clean-burning character of Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" minimizes the tendency toward carbon formation in the combustion chambers.

Next let us look at the connecting rods and splash troughs. Cylinders 1, 2 and 3 are lubricated by the dipping of the connecting rods into the troughs underneath. Remember that these connecting rods have no oil holes, no oil grooves, no dippers. To lubricate the friction surfaces the oil must work its way through the close clearances between the ends of the bearings and the crank cheeks, and then distribute itself over the bearing surfaces.

(POINT 3) Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" is sufficiently fluid to reach and lubricate these surfaces with ease. An incorrect or heavier oil very often does not.

Next, let us consider the pistons. The Ford pistons over-run the top of the cylinder bore.

Consequently, any oil carried up by the piston rings is forced into the valve chambers. A heavy oil does not burn up readily, but remains to gum the valves.

(POINT 4) Gargoyle Mobiloil "E," being a clean-burning oil, is readily consumed and expelled. It does not remain to foul the valves, seats, and stems.

The Ford multiple disc clutch runs "wet"—is continually in a spray of engine oil. All manufacturers of this type of clutch recommend an oil which will give positive, quick engagement with no slipping, and an instantaneous release.

Heavier oils used in Ford engines cause a drag between the clutch plates. "Creeping" is the result. The car starts ahead when the engine starts, although the clutch is released.

(POINT 5) Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" gives positive and immediate clutch engagement and disengagement. There is no "creeping."

Just a word about the transmission. In the Ford you have a Planetary transmission employing three close-fitting sleeves, mounted on an extension of the crank-shaft. A heavy-bodied oil is not well adapted to work into and thoroughly lubricate the sleeves and bearings.

(POINT 6) The body and character of Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" enable it to distribute thoroughly and meet this lubrication need perfectly.

As to the transmission gears: There are three sets of triple gears mounted on close-fitting pivots. These gears are bronze bushed. The bearings fit tightly—in fact, so tightly that oil heavier than "E" is handicapped in working into and correctly lubricating the bushings and pins.

(POINT 7) Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" is of such body that it freely creeps in between the close-fitting parts and thoroughly lubricates the gears and bearings.

Chattering of Ford transmission bands comes from incorrectly adjusted bands or worn out linings, and is aggravated by unburned fuel mixed with the lubricating oil. In such cases the diluted oil should be replaced with fresh oil and the bands correctly adjusted or the linings renewed. To attempt to remedy such mechanical conditions by the use of so-called "anti-chattering oils" containing foreign material which may separate, or lard oil, wool grease or other animal fats which decompose under heat, is obviously wrong and likely to cause gumming of the valve stems, carbon deposit and other troubles.

(POINT 8) Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" is free from foreign material and animal fat. Its use and proper attention to the adjustment and renewal of the bands will give the greatest possible freedom from chattering. At the same time it will correctly lubricate the engine.

This concludes our trip through the Ford lubrication system.

AFTER careful consideration of the above Ford characteristics the Vacuum Oil Company's Board of Engineers saw plainly the need for a free-flowing oil of high quality and with minimum carbonizing tendencies. To meet these exacting needs of the Ford engine, clutch, and transmission, Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" is manufactured. The results secured by Ford owners through the use of Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" are ample proof of the high quality of this oil and the correctness of this recommendation. Put Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" in your Ford today.

FAIR RETAIL PRICE
—30c A QUART

When the dealer sells a quart of Gargoyle Mobiloil for less than 30c, he does not make his fair, reasonable profit. Lower prices often accompany substitution of low-quality oil for genuine Gargoyle Mobiloil. Prices are slightly higher in Canada, the South-west, and the Far West.

BULGAR CAVALRY CHARGES CROWDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
 Athens, Sept. 21.—Many persons were killed and wounded in a clash between rebellious Bulgarian reds and police at Sofia, according to a report received here by way of Salonika.

Bulgarian cavalry charged the crowds with drawn sabres. Some of the wounded are alleged to have died from stab wounds and beatings administered by police. Many arrests were made. A policeman was killed by a bomb explosion.

The Bulgarian government is taking drastic measures to quell the revolutionary movement. Resistance by the rebellious reds is particularly strong in the Plevna district in northern Bulgaria. Interruption of communications and censorship imposed by the Bulgarian government is making it difficult to obtain information direct from Sofia. All messages show evidence of censorship.

HIS DOG GUARDED BODY OF HERMIT DYING ALONE

For 50 Years He Had Lived on Mountain Top, and There He Passed Away.

Nicholas Grindstaff was found dead at his hermit home on top of Iron Mountain, where he had lived for the past 50 years.

Grindstaff was one of the most unique characters known to the people of Johnson county, Tennessee.

He was born in Little Doe valley seventy-one years ago, of good parentage. In early life he went West to make his fortune, and did meet with very good success in the accumulation of money. But misfortune overtook him, and becoming discouraged at his adversity, he decided to return to his East Tennessee.

After his return to his native hills, Grindstaff is said to have become infatuated with a brunette, but disappointed in love, he later decided to leave the society of those with whom he had been raised and took up his abode in the forest. He went to the top of Iron Mountain, built a crude hut out of small poles, stopping the cracks with moss gathered from rocks and logs.

Occasionally he would visit the settlement for supplies, which the people would gladly furnish him.

His only belongings consisted of a dog and an ox. He used the ox in the cultivation of some ground he had cleared. When found at this hermit home he was lying propped up on his bunk, supposed to have been dead three or four days, his faithful dog keeping watch over him.

Friends from Johnson and Chester counties gathered at his humble home next day and gave him a decent burial on the summit of the grand old mountain. A monument will be erected later to the memory of one of earth's unique characters.

BUOYANCY OF SALT LAKE

Bathers Do Not Drown From Sinking, but Strangle While Afloat.

A government official tells of witnessing a most convincing proof of the weight of the salt-laden waters of the Great Salt Lake. A strong gale of wind was blowing over the lake, and driving its surface into low, white-capped ridges, while along the shore the foam lay like flat banks of new-fallen snow. If it had passed across a lake of fresh water of equal extent that wind unquestionably would have produced such an agitation of its surface that navigation in small boats would have been difficult if not highly perilous.

But the waters of the Great Salt Lake, although driven into ridges, as just remarked, showed a curious resistance to the wind, and the waves rising to only a slight elevation moved along with an appearance of lethargy that the eye could not but notice, says the Washington Star. Yet there was an immense momentum stored up in those low, heavy, slow-moving waves venturing into the water at a point where the depth did not exceed four feet, the observer found that it was impossible to stand against them. Their sheer weight swept him resistlessly along.

The curious buoyancy of the water, containing 22 per cent of salt in solution, increased the helplessness of the bather. He was not submerged, as sometimes occurs in the Atlantic breakers, but was lifted and carried like a cork. It would probably have been impossible to dive through an oncoming wave after the manner practiced by bathers along the Atlantic coast. In the Great Salt Lake people are not drowned through sinking, but strangled while still afloat. The bitter water may enter the air passages with fatal effect, but the body continues to float until it reaches the shore or is picked up.

AT 88, HIS 45TH CHILD

Mexican Laborer's Latest Heir, Six Days Old, Weighs Eight Pounds. Remulu Delst, a Mexican, who lives at Stanton, near Santa Anna, Cal., and works as a laborer on a ranch, is said to be eighty-eight years old and the father of 45 children, the youngest of whom is only six days old, but declared perfect as to form and to weigh eight pounds.

Dr. C. D. Hall, state assessor, is authority for the declaration Delst is the father of 45 children. Hall says he has known Delst 30 years and that the latter now is living with his fourth or fifth wife.

Records of the county recorder show that when Delst was seventy-nine years old twins were born to his wife.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FROM THE GARDEN

The flowers from the garden had been sent in a box to the city. Some one in the city who was very fond of this particular garden had received the box.

And after one box had come, many others followed along, for the first box was sent when the first flowers came out in the spring, and they followed one right after the other after that.

"How beautiful," And oh, how the flowers from the garden did enjoy their reception when they arrived.

They were greeted so delightfully. "You dear pale lavender tulips," the lady said as she received the flowers from the garden, "how beautiful you are. You are just the color of orchids."

"And here are the lovely pink and red and yellow tulips—and here is an orange-colored one."

"Here are the dear white lilies and their pretty soft green leaves and dear me, dear me, how even the very twigs smell so sweetly of the garden."

And then the lady saw some ferns in the bottom of the box and as she saw that the ferns were so new that they had scarcely unfurled themselves, she almost cried.

"Why ferns," she said, "I grew you when I was a little girl. And your sweet fern fragrance is so like that dark cool corner of the garden where I put you that it almost makes me cry. Happiness often makes one want to cry, ferns," she said.

And the ferns thought it was lovely of her to weep a tear or two or three, as she did, and, too, she was homesick then, just a little for that garden spot where it was so cool and where she had planted the ferns.

The ferns loved her tears because they thought there was nothing nicer than tears of affection. The rain was happy and the ferns were so happy for they loved tears of happiness. Tears of happiness from the Rain King made them grow and kept them fresh and green.

Of course the plants in the house said they weren't thought so much of now as during the winter time when there were no flowers at all.

But still they couldn't complain, for on all the windy days they were still put out of the window and could drink the lovely refreshing rain water.

And creeping Charlie grew more and more all the time for he was so anxious to have a look at everything that he spread himself this way and that way.

The garden flowers were very much pleased, for when they first arrived they were afraid it was going to be too hot for them in the city home where there seemed to be so much heat, as in the city people still thought it was too cool.

But the garden flowers noticed the windows were quickly opened after they arrived and that the heat was turned off, which was surely an honor to the garden flowers.

It let them know how much they were thought of by the lady who received them.

"Oh garden flowers," she said to them, "how well I remember the garden parade of flowers, beginning in the spring and lasting all through the summer into the fall."

"And how we used to cover up the flowers in the fall with newspapers, and so the newspapers would not blow away, we fastened them down at the corners with pebbles from the garden gravel path."

"Yes, the pebbles even used to work for the garden."

"We all loved the garden, and we all loved the flowers."

"And even if I cannot see the garden now all the time I can see it once in a while, and the flowers will be sent to me when I can't go to them."

"To travel so beautifully, dear flowers, too, you keep so fresh, and yet your journey is a long one."

And the flowers whispered in their sweet flower way.

"We would not fade for anything for the one who sends us loves us and the one who receives us loves us and we want her to see us as we are."

FOR WINTER FRUIT CLOSET

Where mushrooms are plentiful they may be canned, pickled or made into catsup, which will make a most delicious flavor for sauces, gravies and salads during the winter.

Mushroom Catsup.—Wipe the freshly gathered mushrooms; if perfectly clean they are much better if not washed. Put in layers into a stone crock with a sprinkling of salt. Cover with cloth folded to keep out the dust, and let stand in a warm place for 24 hours. Put into a colander to drain off the salt and dash over them cold water to rinse. Put the mushrooms through a coarse sieve and to every quart of the liquid add an ounce of peppercorns, and simmer for 30 minutes. Then add one-fourth of an ounce of whole allspice, one-half ounce of sliced ginger root, one dozen whole cloves, three blades of mace, and cook 15 minutes. Put into small bottles, cork and dip into sealing wax or paraffin.

Company Sweet Pickles.—Take one pound each of candied cherries, a layer of raisins, but in clusters of two or three in the stem six dozen of the tiny cucumbers. Put a quart of the best cider vinegar into a porcelain lined kettle, add one pound of granulated sugar and boil to a syrup, with two teaspoonsful each of nutmeg and white pepper, one teaspoonful of mace and one-half teaspoonful of ground cloves. Bring the syrup to a boil, then add the cherries; when they are plumped, remove with a skimmer and add the raisins. As soon as the raisins are plump, skim them out and add the cucumbers. When boiling, cook two minutes; this should be tender but not soft. Fill glass jars with the cucumbers in layers with the cherries and raisins. Pour over the syrup boiling hot and seal.

VOLCANOE TO AID

Mountains Being Harnessed to Supply Power.

People of Italian Town Light Streets, Cook and Heat Homes by Volcanic Steam Pressure.

Volcanoes, although often referred to as burning mountains, in reality do not burn at all. Neither are they mountains in the true sense of the term.

The scientific definition of a volcano is "an opening in the earth's crust, through which heated matter is thrown up from the earth's interior to the surface, where it usually forms a hill, more or less conical in shape, and generally with a hollow or crater at the top."

Where eruptions frequently occur, the heated materials forced upwards pile themselves to heights which cause them to be classed as mountains.

What looks like fire belching forth is merely the reflection of the molten lava on the clouds of steam which hang over the crater. The steam itself is often wrongly spoken of as smoke.

The cause of volcanic action is not known. The most popular theory is that it is brought about by water getting into the white-hot furnace below the earth's crust. In support of this fact is cited that nearly all the most active volcanoes are close to the sea.

Volcanoes are really safety-valves. Without them we could hardly have existed at all, for scientists say it is due to volcanic action that the continents emerged from the sea. Earthquakes, which are usually more terrible in their effects than volcanoes, would occur much more frequently but for these safety-valves.

Between 600 and 700 volcanoes have been counted in various parts of the world, and of these 270 are still on the active list. Vesuvius was silent for over two thousand years, destroyed Pompeii. Etna is known to have been active as far back as 500 B. C. In 1180 it destroyed 15,000 people, since when at varying intervals it has been the scene of a number of disasters.

In Italy and in some of the volcanic islands of the Pacific the steam power issuing from volcanoes has been harnessed for engineering purposes. The people of the Tuscan town of Lardello light their streets, heat their homes, and do their cooking by means of volcanic steam pressure, which generates enough heat to cook a joint in less than half an hour.

In another district in Italy volcanic energy is exploited for the purpose of making electricity, which is supplied to many towns, some of them more than 50 miles distant. The steam is carried through pipes to huge boilers, where its heat converts water into still more steam which drives the dynamos and provides central heating in many houses. Similar installations are being erected in other parts of Italy, and the future may see that country become a vast electric power station, supplying electricity to half Europe.

The great spectacular volcano of Kilauea, in Hawaii, is to be made to justify its existence in the same way. The crater of Kilauea is a vast lake of molten lava, and this will be harnessed to supply the Hawaiian community with light, heat, and power.

The time may be not far distant when the largest and most active volcanoes, instead of being a dreaded menace to the safety of man, will contribute materially to his happiness and comfort.

Plows and Practicality.

An enlightening and perhaps a chastening experience to Carolinians who deride "theorists" and "experts" in agriculture, but put all their faith and hope for progress in "practical" or "dirty" farmers, would be some reading in the history of so universal and useful an implement as the turn plow. "Practical" farmers had been unable through generations to design just right the curves of the moldboard and no appreciable progress in that matter was made until theorists applied to the problem the laws of higher mathematics. Thomas Jefferson, in a study prepared for the French academy, calculated the curves and reported the results of field tests, and on these lines, almost unchanged, lines evolved by pure theory and checked by practical use, moldboards have been constructed from his time. "Practical" farmers, a little later, when the cast iron turn plow was introduced, which preceded the chilled steel plow, insisted that the cast iron would "poison the soil, injure the fertility and promote the growth of rocks."—From the Columbia State.

Size of Sea Waves Given.

Again the question of the maximum height that great waves attain on the storm-swept ocean has been answered in at least a semi-scientific manner. The hydrographic office at Washington has been at the pains to compare many of the most trustworthy observations on record relating to waves on the Atlantic. The conclusion arrived at is that, on the average, what are called "great waves" attain a height of about 20½ feet. In tempests of extreme fury waves sometimes attain a height as great as 47½ feet. Such waves can hardly be called "mountainous," but to castaways in a small boat they would seem to be prodigiously high. The length of great waves, that is, the distance from one hollow to that before or behind it, varies from 600 to 2,600 feet.

Saved by Airplane.

A woman scientist, dying from tetanus, produced by an accidental gunshot wound while collecting snakes and insects in the woods of Panama, was recently rescued by an airplane flying over her camp and dropping the necessary anti-tetanus serum.

NEED OF MEDICAL RECORDS

Their Value in Industry Is Emphasized by United States Health Service.

Industrial medical service from the start has grown in favor and is now almost universal among the larger plants of the country, says the United States public health service. The same, however, it points out, cannot be said in regard to the keeping of medical records. The chief complaint against record keeping seems to be that the information recorded is asserted not to be worth its cost except as a protection to the employer in cases of disability that might be considered to be of industrial origin.

Such a complaint probably results from the rapidity with which the science of industrial hygiene has developed. Since the establishment of health departments in modern industrial plants, the records of absence from work on account of sickness have become most valuable as an index of health conditions in the plant. From the records, the sickness rates can each month be computed for the principal occupations or departments; and any significant increase for a group of workers will at once indicate to the industrial physician or sanitarian the need for inquiring into its causes. Once these are discovered, the health service declares, it will often be possible to nip in the bud what might, if allowed to continue unchecked, become very expensive both to employer and employee.

"Apart from indicating any change in the health status of this or that class of employees or part of the plant or disease hazard, the records should show the health rate of each class with reference to the general health rate for all employees and to the rates of all other classes," continues the statement of the health service. "Such comparison may indicate that certain groups of employees are experiencing an excessive amount of ill health at expense both to the employer and to themselves."

"The value of properly kept medical records does not end with the plant that keeps them. The public health service has for some time been collecting industrial statistics in order to obtain fundamental information needed for effective disease-prevention work. As yet the service is ignorant as to the actual prevalence of diseases that cause suffering and loss of efficiency but not death. Knowledge as to the sickness 'expectancy' for all industrial employees and for certain kinds of employment is needed."

"If enough sickness records can be obtained to permit generalization after making due allowance for fortuitous conditions and hazards, the standards and averages established can be used by plants for comparison with their own sickness rates. Such comparison will probably indicate to many of them why some of their departments have found it difficult to keep men, and will show the desirability of making certain improvements in these or other departments."

"The public health service will, whenever possible, be glad to co-operate in the study of sickness and disease prevention in different plants by helping them to devise forms that are especially suited to the plant and that yet conform to certain standard requirements, and by helping in any analysis of the records that may tend to improve working conditions and to lessen losses due to sickness."

"The service will be glad to receive from any plants regular reports that conform to standard requirements and to tabulate, analyze and publish statistics based on them. In certain instances the service will assist companies in making a detailed analysis of their sickness records in order to measure the bearing of such factors as sex, age, nationality, marital status, occupation, and length of time employed, on the incidence and severity of disease."—New York Times.

Culture and Letter Writing.

Letter writing is a custom of civilized races. The more cultivated the individual, the more it is second nature with him to attend to his business and personal correspondence. With individuals as with races, it is largely a matter of custom and habit. Some persons—you may know some such—boast they do not write letters. Some men who avoid this irksome duty merely shift the responsibility. Possibly they are so situated in business that they are not required to attend to any correspondence. Social and personal letters they leave to their wives or daughters or sisters. It is an interesting thing that the more important a man is the more particular he is to attend to seemingly unimportant correspondence. If he does not have time to attend to it himself he employs a secretary to do it for him. The distinguished writer sees that every letter addressed to him concerning what he has written, whether it is sympathetic or hostile, receives a courteous and suitable answer. The poor or mediocre writer often throws such letters in his waste basket.—New York Sun.

You Never Can Tell.

A strapping woman boarded a trolley car, settled into a seat and paid her fare. The car had not traveled more than five blocks when she rose and rang up a cash fare. Whereupon the conductor strode up to her. "Madam," he demanded, "do you know that I must turn in every fare rung up upon that register?"

"Certainly," the woman replied, throwing open her coat and showing a badge. "Meet the new inspector."—Everybody's Magazine.

ANNOUNCE WINNERS OF JUNIOR MEDALS

Office of State Leader of Boys' and Girls' Work Gives Out List of Champions.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The office of the state leader of junior extension at the college of agriculture here gave out today the list of team winners in the junior project demonstrations at last week's fair at Syracuse.

All through the fair, teams of boys and girls from the counties of the state demonstrated to visitors some of the things they had learned in their junior project work.

These teams were then judged in competition for the medals offered every year by the state fair commission. Agricultural and home-making teams were judged separately and to each member of the winning team in each class a gold medal was presented by Commissioner Pyke. To those winning second place a silver medal was awarded, and to each member of the third team a bronze medal.

In the home-making projects, first place was won by a clothing team from Redwood in Jefferson county. This team consisted of Margery Jewett and Elsa Krusa. Second place was won by a clothing team from New Berlin, Chenango county, consisting of Sarah Brerley and Beatrice Lamb.

Marion Horton, Dorothy Tutbill and Dorothy Thew from Campbell Hall, in Orange county, won the third prize with their canning demonstration.

In the agricultural demonstrations, the first prize winner was a poultry team from Wheeler in Steuben county, consisting of Otto Putnam and George Derick. Second prize winners were Walter Blair and Kenneth Clark, a garden team from Sherburne, Chenango county, and the third prize was won by Nelson DePuy, Harold Dadds and Earl Smith, a garden team from Watertown, in Jefferson county.

COOLIDGE TALKS POLITICS WITH NEW YORK LEADERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 21.—President Coolidge discussed the New York political situation for nearly an hour today with Senator Wadsworth of New York, Charles D. Hilles, the Republican national committeeman, George Norris, the Republican state chairman and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the assistant secretary of the navy.

National politics were not discussed in the conference, which was held at the White House. The president was acquainted with the plans of the New York Republican leaders to gain control of the state assembly in the next election. They described the situation from a Republican point of view as "very encouraging."

Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, will hold a regular meeting this evening at the armory at which time several very important matters will come before the meeting. The question as to whether the building committee shall purchase the lot upon which an option has been secured will be voted upon. The local post is planning to erect a Legion home in the near future and a very desirable site is now being offered. A large attendance must be present at the meeting this evening in order to have a representative number of the Post present so that action may be taken. Reports of the state and county convention delegates will be received and there will also be reports from the armistice hall committee.

At The Theaters.

A musical comedy show will be at the Orpheum hall next week, Tip Top Merry-makers. This organization has been playing all of the leading cities for the past nine years and from every place comes high praise for the company.

Lew Orth, the principal comedian, is surrounded by a company of players who are reputed to be very clever. One of the most widely heralded of this season's photoplays is announced for today at the Auditorium. It is "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a Metro-SL picture based on the famous story of New England life which was a phenomenal "best seller" when it appeared a decade or so ago. So great was the popularity of the printed narrative by Charles Felton Pidgin that it was dramatized and in this form it won more favor.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 21.—The stock market opened generally steady today. Changes in most cases were fractionally upward. Leather shares, however, displayed heaviness. American Hide and Leather preferred yielding over 1 point 3/4. Central Leather preferred 1 1/4 to 4 3/4, and Central Leather common 1/4 to 1 1/2. S. Steel was unchanged at 8 3/4. Bethlehem Steel off 1/4 to 4 1/4. Baldwin Locomotive up 1/4 to 11 1/2 and American Locomotive up 1/4 to 6 3/4. Stewart Warner rose 1/4 to 8 3/4. Oils opened steady. Sinclair refining 1/4 to 1 1/4. Producers and Refiner 1/4 to 2 1/4. Caden 1/4 to 2 1/4. Reading advanced 3/4 to 7 1/4. Baltimore and Ohio 1/4 to 4 1/4. Moderate buying of railroad shares featured the forenoon trading. It served to strengthen the industrial list, which after a brief spell of steadiness at the opening showed signs of resuming its downward trend. Bears made a concerted drive against the industrial list in the hope of bringing the market nearer to its previous bottom, but their efforts were frustrated by the appearance of buying orders in the railroad group, especially in the stocks of coal carrying companies. Baltimore & Ohio at 50, Reading 7 1/4 and New York Central at 10 1/4 were up about 1 point. American Hide and Leather preferred and both classes of Central Leather were under constant pressure. Yesterday's break of American Woolen was further extended in spite of an official denial of rumors of new financing and cutting of dividend, that stock breaking nearly 2 points to 7 1/4. Oil stocks were barely steady.

Play Safe.
Harry's folks noticed he was content to play in his own yard and wondered why he didn't tease to go and play with the boys on the vacant lot. When asked about it he said: "Well, I'm a regular scrapper when with my own gang, but there's a boy visiting here and I don't know whether I can lick him or not; so I'm waiting till he's gone home. I like our yard best anyway."

BILLY SUNDAY HAVING POOR LUCK IN NIAGARA.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 21.—"If Billy Sunday is obliged to quit this town, we, its ministers, will quit it too." This was the statement issued today following a conference of five Niagara Falls clergymen who gathered to discuss ways and means of increasing the attendance at the Sunday campaign in progress here.

Attendance at the lectures has been very poor and the collection worse. The Rev. Sunday declared that he never saw such poor support and such stingy collections in all the years of his experience.

"I am willing to quit if the people want it," he said.

LEADING STOCKS IN MILD DECLINES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 21.—Despite the improvement in European conditions and the easing of money rates in this country, the stock market, supposedly the barometer of industry and political conditions throughout the world, continued to slump today, and prices of many issues rapidly approached the low marks established early in the year. The declines were not of large enough proportions to cause a general break in prices but leaders such as Steel Common, Baldwin Locomotive and others, were decidedly lower.

The accepted theory for the decline was that big business men are dissatisfied with the way business is shaping up this fall and with the outlook for next year.

DON'T VISIT WITH BUSY MAN

Experiences of Colonel Waters With President Harrison Might Well Act as Warning.

We once heard a busy man say he wouldn't care to see his long-absent brother on a busy morning. Thereby hangs a tale, Capper's Weekly observes. The regiment of Col. L. H. Waters was brigaded alongside of Gen. Benjamin Harrison's brigade for several months during the Civil war, and the two men became great friends. After the war General Harrison returned to Indiana and became President of the United States. Colonel Waters became one of the West's distinguished lawyers. One time Waters went to Washington on business and while there decided that it would be an act of discourtesy if he didn't go up and call on his old army pal, President Harrison, then in the White House. So he made himself known to the President's secretary, "Walk right in," said the secretary, "the President is at his desk alone right now." Waters walked in. President Harrison had his nose down to his desk and didn't look up. The colonel shuffled his feet to attract the President's attention. This didn't bring results. Then he coughed. Whereupon President Harrison looked up and growled, "Well, what do you want here?" "Not a thing," retorted Waters as he turned on his heels and walked out.

SPEED REDUCED TO FIGURES

Just What the Expression "Doing Sixty Miles an Hour" Really Conveys to Expert.

"Going at the rate of sixty miles an hour" is an expression dear to many writers, both of fiction and of fact. Just what does this mean from the prosaic standpoint of science? What if an automobile proceeding at the rate of 60 miles an hour should come to a sudden stop, such as, for instance, by striking a heavy bridge abutment? A fair idea of the completeness of the wreck may be had by imagining the machine falling from a height of 120 feet or from the top of a ten-story office building. An object falling from a height of 120 feet would have the same velocity at the instant of striking the ground as the motorcar would have when traveling 60 miles an hour.

The energy possessed by a 2,400-pound automobile traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour is 290,000 foot pounds, which is the same as that of a body weighing 1,000 pounds at the instant of striking the ground from a drop of 290 feet.

Were a resistance of 6,000 pounds applied to the automobile it would come to rest in a distance of 44 feet in one second of time, and in coming to rest would be doing work at an average rate of over 257 horse-power.—New York Herald.

Causes of Cotton Gin Fires.

Investigations by the United States Department of Agriculture have shown that a great many of the fires in cotton gins, which in some seasons cause losses in excess of a million dollars, are caused by static electricity which collects in certain parts of the machinery as a result of friction. There are other causes, such as matches in the cotton, overheated bearings, friction between the saws and cotton stuck in the ribs, and sparks caused by pieces of metal and other foreign particles passing through, but static electricity is an important cause and one which may be controlled.

If certain parts of the machinery in the gin are grounded by proper wiring any electricity will be drained off and no sparks will be formed. The Department of Agriculture has issued a circular, No. 271, in which the system of wiring is explained and shown in diagram.

Pullman Laundries Kept Busy.

The Pullman company probably has laundered the greatest quantity of linen of any concern in the world. In one year 800,000,000 pieces were cleaned, this total including 2,631,340 coats worn by porters and waiters. Sixty-five laundries handle the Pullman linen, and they are frequently inspected and constantly checked to see that the special formula prescribed by the Pullman officials is followed in the washing. As the linen comes from the mangles it is inspected, and such articles as are torn or stained are set aside. Hopelessly soiled linen is thrown away, while the repair rooms attend to the slightly torn articles. The total linen repaired at all points for one month amounted to 316,604 pieces.

Modern Syria.

Syria has an area of 60,000 square miles, about the size of the state of Georgia, with a population of 8,000,000. It was made independent of Turkey, and placed under a French mandate by the allied powers in 1920. For convenience of administration, France divided the country into four provinces: Aleppo, Latakia, Damascus, and Great Lebanon. The eastern part of the country is dry. Great Lebanon, however, is very fertile. The population is largely Mohammedan.

SWEETSER AND OULMET LEADING

Trial in Police Court Judge Schirick finds Mrs. Schermerhorn guilty, and advises Mrs. Shank to pay $25. Lena Shank and Frank Schermerhorn, both of Cedar street, have quite friendly in the past, and friendship led to the arrest of Mrs. Shank on a charge of using indecent language to Mrs. Schermerhorn on the morning of September 3, and the hearing was today before Judge Schirick in court.

Attorney Frank W. Brooks appeared for Mrs. Shank and Attorney C. Merritt for Mrs. Schermerhorn. At the close of the testimony Judge Schirick found Mrs. Schermerhorn guilty of disorderly conduct and fined her $25 and sentenced her to 10 days in the county jail. Judge Schirick, however, suspended the term of the jail sentence pending behavior on the part of Mrs. Schermerhorn.

Among the witnesses sworn today were Frank Schermerhorn. He is now on parole. He testified that he with Mrs. Shank on Deyo street and that his mother drove later in a taxi cab. He said that his mother called Mrs. Shank a bum, and another word.

Mrs. Schermerhorn when she took witness stand stated she had called Mrs. Shank a bum, but denied any other indecent language. She said, however, that she had told Mrs. Shank she wanted her to leave alone.

She further stated that Frank was out on parole and she was trying to have him live up to it so that he would not be sent away again, but if he spent late hours with Mrs. Shank he was not able to go to work following day.

Attorney Merritt stated that he had appeal the court's decision. Mrs. Schermerhorn stated she did not expect to and wanted to pay fine. She asked Judge Schirick to warn Mrs. Shank to leave Frank alone.

"Are you a divorced woman?" asked Judge Schirick, turning to Mrs. Shank. She smilingly shook her head.

"I can't instruct you to leave alone," continued Judge Schirick, "but I would advise you."

Mrs. Shank is a young woman in her twenties and has not lived with her husband in the past three years.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Pittsboro Country Club, Chicago, Sept. 21.—Jesse Sweetser of New York, defending champion, was two up at the first turn today in his semi-final match with Bob Gardner of Chicago, in the national amateur golf championship.

Gardner won the first hole from Sweetser when the champion took four to reach the green against the wind but the match was squared at the second when Gardner drove into a trap and took four. Sweetser put his tee shot on the green and was down in two putts.

Then Gardner played some very bad golf, slicing his drive to rough and sinking an iron. These cost him a seven at the third and he followed this by putting his second over the green into a trap at the fourth and missed one in the trap. Sweetser won both holes.

Gardner, never a really sound player, but great at match play, showed some of his brilliant golf at the par four fifth and six holes, making birdie three, on each. This squared the match.

Sweetser won the short seventh, pitching over a pond just short of the hole. Gardner took three putts from the far edge of the green and Sweetser won with a three to become one up.

Sweetser the eighth hole where he holed a three foot putt for a birdie three. His second, a pitch over the traps, was perfect. They halved the ninth, leaving Sweetser two up.

Cards:
Sweetser, out.... 635 444 334—36
Gardner, out.... 547 633 444—40

Oulmet assumed a lead over Marston early, being 2 up at the end of the first three holes of play. Poor putting soon lost him the advantage as well as an unfortunate break on the ninth hole. Oulmet's drive, a bit sliced there, found a wheel rut. He played out to the edge of the green but was unable to get his approach putt dead.

On the sixth Oulmet sliced his drive to the woods and lost the other hole. Early in the game Marston had trouble with his putting, had a six footer to win the first hole, and failing. After that Oulmet picked up the second. Oulmet won the third hole also when Marston's third shot found a trap near the green, and his fourth was strong. At the short seventh Marston took three putts and was 2 down again but he won both the eighth and ninth, Oulmet taking three putts on each green. The Cards:
Marston Out.... 556 444 444 40
Oulmet Out.... 545 445 355—40

Both Sweetser and Gardner had birdie fours at the tenth, getting home with iron with the following wind. They reached the eleventh green with their tee shots, but Gardner was at the left edge of the large green and his approach putt was weak. He could not hole a seven footer and Sweetser who drove near the pin won with a three.

Both were afraid the wind would carry their second over the twelfth green and did not hit their shots firm enough. They were short, but Gardner chipped dead and won with a four. Sweetser failing on a seven foot putt. Sweetser holed a four foot putt to win the thirteenth with a two. Gardner came close with a 25 foot putt, but three was the best he could do. Gardner's drive was stopped when it struck a boy scout, but he was within an easy iron of the green. He scored a mashie and 20 yards short of the green. His chip shot was 12 feet beyond the cup and Sweetser on in two won the hole with a four, making him four up.

The match was turning into a rout with Sweetser doing the routing. He was six up on Gardner at the 16th hole.

The Chicago player produced some terrible hash for a semi-final in the amateur championship. He collected a seven for the hole to Sweetser five and was five down.

Gardner looked up on his second shot to the 16th and topped it along the ground. Sweetser banged an iron to the hill top green and won the hole with a four, Gardner's pitch up the hill leaving him a 25 foot putt. He took five. Sweetser with a lead of 6 holes appeared to have the match tucked away.

VERMONT EDUCATION COMMISSIONER AT K. H. S.
Thursday afternoon Principal Lewis called a special high school assembly and introduced the Rev. A. W. Hewitt, who is chairman of the State Board of Education of Vermont and has been a member of the Vermont legislature. The Rev. Mr. Hewitt spoke on educational conditions in Vermont. He said that the present population of Vermont is about 350,000 and that 60,000 children go to school. The educational department is under the general management of the executive department of the state. The governor appoints three men who make up the state board of education. The No matter how much education a appointments must be approved by the senate. The board employs on the home ties and affections. It is experienced educator who is in the relation of one person to another as the commissioners of education, in this world that makes success or failure. In the cities there is one superintendent but in the rural districts there is one superintendent for three or four townships. The teachers employed by the schools of Vermont must be trained especially for the subject they teach. This shows the high standard of education in Vermont. After stating the above facts about the educational condition, the Rev. Mr. Hewitt told some very interesting and amusing stories of the old school days leading up to the relations of one person to another in the home and in life. New York last year.

METHODISTS LOSE IN EARTHQUAKE

Large Part of Its $1,800,000 Property in Japan Destroyed, Including Publishing House.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, Ill., Sept. 21.—Cablegrams received today by the Committee on Conservation and Advance of the Methodist Episcopal Church from Bishop Herbert Welch, presiding bishop of the Japan and Korea area, state that a large part of the Methodist mission property valued at $1,800,000 was damaged or destroyed in the recent Japanese disaster.

A cable signed by President Ishizaki of Aoyama Gakuin, the Methodist college for boys in Tokio, states that many of the buildings of that institution have been irreparably damaged, but that the college will open its classes on schedule October 1.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which has maintained schools for five thousand girls in the devastated area, faces a loss estimated at $250,000 on a total property valuation of $400,000. Seven school buildings occupied by this society have been totally destroyed. One high school, which accommodated 900 girls, has been damaged beyond repair. Nothing is known so far as to the fate of the Woman's Christian College.

The Methodist Publishing House, which was located in the heart of the business district of Tokio, is believed to have been destroyed. In response to the appeal of Bishop Welch the Board of Foreign Missions has called $20,000 to meet the immediate needs of its workers, and is issuing an appeal to the entire Methodist Episcopal Church to contribute to a special fund for restoration of the work and relief of Japanese needs.

WALTON MAKES MORE CHARGES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 21.—
Bitter denial of Governor Walton's latest indictment against the Ku Klux Klan was expressed by leaders of the Oklahoma realm of the Klan here today.

N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Klan in Oklahoma, who is now charged with taking personal part in flogging parties, characterized the charge as "another framed attempt at libel and character assassination."

Governor Walton's latest sensational charges were contained in a transcript of the first evidence taken by the military board now in session in Oklahoma City conducting an investigation of the alleged domination of the Klan in the city and county.

The transcript of evidence was accompanied by a statement by the governor in which he said necessary guns will be placed in the hands of every man in Oklahoma who is opposed to the Klan.

The high lights of the evidence as revealed in testimony before the military court were:

1. That N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Klan in Oklahoma, according to the testimony of Dr. A.
A. Maupin, a local dentist, and member of the Klan, was a "member of a constituted squad of whippers."

2. That George W. Clark, district judge of Oklahoma County, J. K.
Wright, county attorney, and Thomas Cawnar, county sheriff, here are now, or were, members of the Ku Klux Klan, according to their own testimony before the board.

(Judge Clark, although admitting he joined the Klan a year ago last May insisted he did not consider himself a Klansman now.)

That according to the testimony of Dr. Maupin, the telephone lines in Oklahoma City were frequently tapped by the Ku Klux Klan.

In making public the testimony,
Governor Walton prefaced the transcript of evidence, with evidence that Jewett and "his invisible empire shall not pass in this state."

"If necessary" the governor declared, "I shall arm every man in the state who is opposed to the Ku Klux Klan."

Dr. Maupin told the military he joined the Klan in April 1920 but later quit the organization. The Klan tried to get Jack Walton, then mayor, to join, Maupin said, but failed.

"N. C. Jewett, a man named Mc-Carron and three other fellows then planned to say Jack tried to get in and could not," the witness testified.

Concerning this, Grand Dragon
Jewett has said:

"Walton did not frown on the Klan until he learned that the Klan did not smile on him. It is a fact of indisputable record that he was inregularly made a member of the Klan and that later recognition was refused him."

Dr. Maupin related how he had been told by the high Klansmen of the whipping of a man named Merriman for alleged relations with another man's wife. Both the victim and the woman, Maupin said, protested innocence.

Governor Walton reiterated today that the issue is now between "the sovereignty of Oklahoma and the rule of the invisible empire." He said as far as he is concerned, he "has crossed the Rubicon and it is a fight to the finish."

He called on the people who believe in a representative form of government to aid him financially—to send remittances direct to Mrs.
Aldrich Blake, wife of his chief counselor.

Klan supporters, meanwhile, were pointing out that the governor in maintaining military rule, is running the state in debt through the issuance of deficiency appropriations —that already the "war debt" totals $59,867.

Anti-Walton members of the legislature were going ahead this morning with their announced intention of effecting the impeachment of the governor. They reiterated that they would meet next Wednesday noon regardless of the "ring of steel" that surrounds the state capital.

Wesley E. Disney, of Muskogee, a house leader, warned Governor Walton not to molest the legislators when they assemble, asserting that any individual who makes an attempt to do so, will be "acting at his peril."

The militant governor's reply to the aroused legislators is the strengthening of the military force in Oklahoma City, a detachment of troops having just arrived from Kingfisher. The governor said he would deal with those who are trying to hold a "rump convention" to oust him from office in a new statement today—chapter two in the "story of Oklahoma City."

TWO INJURED WHEN CAR OF MINISTER TOPPLED OVER

Tuesday afternoon while the Rev.
T. H. E. Richards of Goshen and the Rev. and Mrs. C. T. Byles of Highland Mills, were on their way to attend a meeting of the ministers of the Newburgh district at Wawarsing when near Summitville in attempting to pass another car, which was coming up the hill, on a narrow portion of the highway, the car of the Rev. Mr. Richards slid off the side of the road, turning over and pinning the occupants underneath Mrs.
Byles escaped injury, but the two ministers were injured, but not seriously.

DR. NICOLL ENDORSES ANTI-DIPHTHERIA TOXIN

In last week's health talk broadcast from the General Electric Company's station WGY at Schenectady,
Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., New York State Commissioner of Health, urges parents to have their children protected against diphtheria by the administration of toxin-antitoxin mixture and tells how the spread of the disease in schools is being prevented through general application of this protective measure. One of the worries of parents whose children are entering school arises from the fear that they will be exposed to contagious diseases, diphtheria usually being most dreaded.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE BIG LEAGUES

The Yankees fell heir to their third consecutive championship in the American league by finishing one jump ahead of the Browns, 4 to 3. Jones confined the visiting Browns to two hits until the seventh, but weakened thereafter and the Browns had the tying and winning runs on base in the ninth when Williams raised a feeble fly to Schang.

Although the Cubs trifled with Grimes' delivery for a matter of sixteen hits, they finished second to the Dodgers by a score of 9 to 7. In another of a series of double-headers, the Tigers took the Red Sox in the opener, five to four, and battled to a ten inning tie 2 to 2, in the second game.

The Athletics went into a tie for sixth place by disposing of the White Sox, 5 to 3. Glasner shut the Reds absolutely out in the first game 2 to 0, but the Phillies couldn't stand prosperity and dropped the second 6 to 7, in eleven innings.

SIKI GETS FIRST PUBLICITY

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Sept. 21.—That vivid personality known as "Battling Siki," gay boulevardier, whose exploits abroad kept the cables chattering for months, peeped shyly around one corner of Broadway's life today for the first time since he landed in America some weeks ago. New York had forgotten the battling one. He seemed to have a positive genius in Paris for making himself conspicuous, what with pet lions, absinthe, fired fights and the informal society of cafe patrons. Here, he is just one loose leaf among so many.

He may still have the publicity complex but the competition is keen and the battler's stuff entirely too rugged not to say unrefined. Though he has appeared on the streets of New York, a subdued vision in pearl gray, he hasn't attracted the slightest notice. New York is surfeited with freaks. It wouldn't pay undue heed to an ordained bishop in a Navajo blanket.

Meantime, Siki has been straightening the "voit" from the door sill by giving exhibitions in the Lafayette Theater, an obscure playhouse up town. He neglected to obtain permission from the Duke of Muldoon and has been summoned before a magistrate. In this way, he broke into print for the first time in weeks. The incident got slightly more than three lines in the morning papers. They were a requiem for the battling Siki, who once furnished "copy" by the hour for the news scavenger. Almost any negro pugilist in difficulties with the law would have received similar notice.

Siki has either lost his ability to attract attention or else the bizarre element in his make-up has been much exaggerated.

"The drinking of absinthe by the quart, the punching of waiters and other idiosyncrasies of his career abroad has not been evident here. Siki is behaving himself in public, whatever else he may be doing in private.

Likewise is his physical appearance a contradiction of what America first pictured him through photographs. In these, he seemed to be short and chunky, but he is tall and lithe in reality and seems to be built for speed. He has tremendous shoulders and equally generous biceps, sixteen inches by the tape. It was these that gave him the leverage to knock Carpenter upside down and gain the world's lightweight title.

ANDERSON ASSAULTS PRESS AND TAMMANY

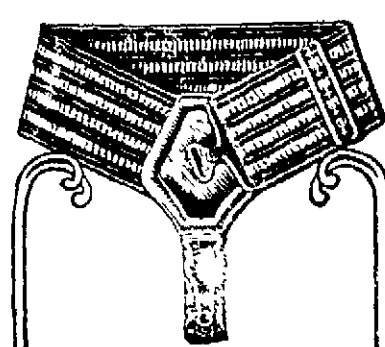

In Address to Methodists at Wawarsing.

William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York State, addressed the conference of the Newburgh District of the New York Annual Conference of the M. E. Church at Wawarsing Thursday afternoon.

He delivered the same tirade against the New York press and Tammany Hall that has been heard in other places since his indictment, by the grand jury. He said that the same judge who had denied his counsel the right to examine the grand jury minutes had, during the same term of court, granted that right to counsel for six other defendants, some of them indicted for the same alleged offense.

Protestant pulpits, he declared, in self-defense, must neutralize the wet press assistance to the politico-eclesiastical conspiracy to destroy both prohibition and public schools, the inadequate public school facilities in New York city being part of the Tammany "plot."

Rank Wilce as Veteran

Still a young man, Dr. J. W. Wilce, Ohio State gridiron tutor and professor of physical education, has entered upon his second decade as Buckeye football coach.

Along with Director Stagg, of Chicago; Yost, of Michigan, and Zuppke, of Illinois, Wilce is one of the veterans of the Big Ten. If his second decade crop of Ohio State teams proves as successful as the first, Ohio football fans will be sitting pretty. In the ten years Ohio State has been a member of the Big Ten, during all of which time Doctor Wilce has been director of football, Buckeye grid teams have thrice won the conference championship and have risen from obscurity to the front rank of college teams. At the same time Doctor Wilce has won recognition as one of the outstanding football coaches of the country.

HOPPE WILL DEFEND HIS BILLIARD TITLE

All Veteran Players to Take Part in Next Tournament.

It is now generally understood that the next international 18.2 ballline tournament for the professionals will have about the same lot of players in it as took part in the one held at the Pennsylvania hotel in New York last November. In that tournament Willie Hoppe finished first, defeating the champion, Young Jake Schaefer, who came second. Roger Conti of France, was third; Edouard Horemans of Belgium, fourth; Welker Cochran of San Francisco, fifth, and Erich Hagenlacher of Germany, last.

These six players are now widely scattered. Hoppe, the champion, has been resting at his home in New York and paying attention at the same time to his big room on Broadway. Young Jake Schaefer has been taking it easy at his new home in San Francisco. Now and then he visits Graney's room there or takes a run over to Los Angeles where he has played some games with Kinsey Mutsuyama, the little Japanese expert at ballline, who is coming fast.

Welker Cochran has left San Francisco and settled down at Hollywood, located in the center of Los Angeles' moving picture district. There he has established "The Cochran Billiard Studio," a work of art fitted up magnificently and his patronage is drawn mostly from the moving picture colony. Among his everyday patrons are such famous movie characters as Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin, Jackie Coogan and others in that set.

Roger Conti, who finished third in the international, has returned to his home in France, but has told his friends in America that he would return in the fall in time to take part in the next tournament.

Edouard Horemans has arrived at his old home in Brussels, Belgium, after a two-year visit to this country, in which he was wonderfully successful from both a financial and playing standpoint.

Erich Hagenlacher, the German expert who finished last in the international, has become a full-fledged American citizen and has settled down in New York for keeps. He is often seen in the big rooms and they say he has improved greatly in his play and that he will soon be able to hold his own with any of the ballline players.

Sporting Squibs of All Kinds

The "rights" men fight for always multiply rapidly as men learn more about fighting.

Many of them, however, learn to wear knickers and merely take up golf as an alibi.

The Middle States regatta concludes the rowing year in the East. It was over the one-mile straightaway course on the Schuylkill river, Philadelphia, Labor day.

Earl J. Thomson, holder of the world record of 14 2-5 seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles, has signed a three-year contract to coach the Yale track squad.

Because there is a "get there first" craze among the riders, jockeys on British race courses are becoming a menace to other riders as well as to their mounts.

No race track in the world can compare with the Flemington course in Melbourne, Australia, where every one of 100,000 spectators can watch the progress of the races.

The Undine Barge club of Philadelphia, national senior champions in eight-oared rowing, as well as the Pennsylvania Barge club of the same city, plan to develop eight-oared crews for the Olympic regatta trials next year.

Aesthetic dancing is to be taught men on the football squad this year at Notre Dame college. According to the coaches this system will develop a sense of rhythm essential to the timing of a series of shift plays.

Venus di Milo. The famous statue of Venus, known as the Venus of Melos, was found on that island by a farmer in 1820 and removed to the Louvre, Paris. It was probably done in the Fourth century before Christ.
